

BBP – Best Business Practice (Sharing the Improvements)

“Sharing the improvements” is in addition to the standard “control” step:

- Think about replicating the changes in other processes; share your new knowledge within and outside of your organization
- It is important to provide positive moral support to team members to maximize the effectiveness of the solution
- Replicating the improvements, sharing your success, and thanking team members helps build buy-in for future improvement initiatives

- ☐ What other areas might benefit from these improvements, learning, knowledge and application?
 - ☐ How can the organization capture best practices to leverage improvements across the business?
 - ☐ What other systems, operations, processes, and infrastructures need updates to facilitate knowledge transfer and improvements?
